11. Bulgarian Gallop

Lively and rhythmic \( \text{♩} = 132 \)

Fred the horse has got two old wooden legs; if you sing he'll do a crazy galloping dance. When he runs he makes a terrible noise; you can hear him all the way from Pleven to France.

If you're mad enough to ride on his back, he will jump and spin and sing a very rude song.

If you're mad enough to ride on his back, he will throw you off unless you're ever so strong. Clack-ety bang, bang, clack-ety bang, bang, clack-ety bang go his two wooden legs, it's a bit of a bumpy, bit of a bumpy, bit of a bumpy ride!

Clack-ety bang, bang, clack-ety bang go his two wooden legs, they go clack-ety bang, bang, clack-ety bang, bang, clack-ety bang, bang, bang! Try not to fall off, hold on tight, try not to fall off, hold on tight, try not to fall off, hold on tight, you'll be alright! Try not to fall off, hold on tight, try not to fall off, hold on tight, try not to fall off, hold on tight, oh, what a sight!
