dew- y cob- webs cast their nets To catch soft bird- song in their sil- ver threads. So, I'll un- furl my hands, Let my chry- sa- lis heart speak. I'll un- furl my thoughts And set my winged im- agina- tion free.

Winter

We've got our skates on.

We can't see for snow drifts.

But what do we care?

What do we care? We've got our skates on.
So, we'll tip and tumble over ice, tumble over ice, we'll put on our coats will glister in forbidden moonlight, our coats will glister in forbidden moonlight As our feet etch out our names, our names tonight.
