Wiring the Nation
Telecommunication, Newspaper-Reportage, and Nation Building in British India, 1850–1930

Michael Mann, Humboldt University
This book analyses the social, cultural and political consequences of the telegraph in British India between 1850 and 1930. It demonstrates in how far the telegraph influenced and changed newspaper reportage in British India and, at the same time, to what extent it influenced the Indian national movement after the turn of the nineteenth century.

Restoring Consumer Sovereignty
How Markets Manipulate Us and What the Law Can Do About It
Adrian Kuenzler, Zurich University, and Yale University Law School

This book explores the subtle and multifaceted nuances that lead consumers to behave in one way or another. On the whole, the cognitive psychological research has demonstrated that consumer decision-making is a profound topic that is considerably more complex than previously supposed. It is the objective of this book to enable the reader to understand the complexity of individual decision-making, so that legal policy can create environments in which consumers are both better informed, and find more meaning and satisfaction in what they buy.

Taxing the Church
Religion, Exemptions, Entanglement, and the Constitution
Edward A. Zelinsky, Benjamin N. Cardozo School of Law

This book explores the taxation and exemption of churches and other religious institutions revealing that they are treated diversely by the federal and state tax systems. Either taxing or exempting churches and other sectarian entities entangles church and state. The taxes to which churches are more frequently subject – federal Social Security and Medicare taxes, sales taxes, real estate conveyance taxes – fall on the less entangling end of the spectrum. The taxes from which religious institutions are exempt – general income taxes, value-based property taxes, unemployment taxes – are typically taxes with the greatest enforcement potential for church-state entanglement.

The Federalization of Corporate Governance
Marc I. Steinberg, Dedman School of Law, Southern Methodist University

This book focuses on the federalization of corporate governance in the United States from both historical and contemporary perspectives. At the outset, it is clear that state corporate law remains vital with respect to the propriety of substantive fiduciary conduct as well as setting forth the relations among and between the corporation, its fiduciaries, its shareholders, and its other stakeholders. Accordingly, the ensuing chapters focus on key aspects of state corporate law to illustrate the continued importance of state company law impacting corporate governance.

Micro, Small, and Medium Enterprise Insolvency
A Modular Approach
Riz Mokal, South Square Chambers; University College London, Ronald Davis, University of British Columbia, Alberto Mazzoni, Catholic University of Milan, President of UNIDROIT, Irit Mevorach, University of Nottingham, Madam Justice Barbara Romaine, Queen’s Bench, Canada, Janis Sarra, University of British Columbia, and Ignacio Tirado, Universidad Autonoma De Madrid

This book reconsiders the treatment of distressed Micro, Small and Medium Enterprises (MSMEs). Recognising that insolvency systems traditionally suit larger enterprises, and that they do not always apply neatly to smaller entities, the book proposes a ‘modular’ approach designed to facilitate the treatment of smaller enterprises in distress.

Re-inventing Business Models
How Firms Cope with Disruption
Henk Volberda, Frans van den Bosch, and Kevin Heij, all at Erasmus University

• Provides new insights into how business model innovation acts as a source of competitive advantage
• Insights are illustrated with practical case studies
• Multidisciplinary in appeal across management disciplines – strategy, organization, innovation

Re-inventing Business Models concentrates on the how and when of business model innovation. It provides managers with menus to outperform competitors and helps them choose between improving the existing business model and radically renewing it. The conclusions are supported by the authors’ own research and case studies.

Professionalizing Leadership

Barbara Kellerman, Harvard Kennedy School

- Takes a hard look at our implicit if not explicit claim that learning how to lead is quick and easy – done in a course or a workshop or an executive program, in a week or a weekend or a term or a year
- Provides a bold alternative by asserting that leadership must become a profession – like medicine and law
- Makes an all-important distinction among leadership education, leadership training, and leadership development

In Professionalizing Leadership, leadership scholar Barbara Kellerman lays out a plan to remedy the field’s vagueness by advocating testing, certification, and regulation that befit a true profession. This book illuminates the pitfalls and potential of leadership education, and outlines a logical sequence for professionalizing the field.

The Hospital and Clinic Improvement Handbook

Using Lean and the Theory of Constraints for Better Healthcare Delivery

Boaz Ronen, Tel Aviv University, Joseph S. Pliskin, Ben-Gurion University of the Negev, and Shimeon Pass

Foreword by Donald M. Berwick, Institute for Healthcare Improvement

The Hospital and Clinic Improvement Handbook is a practical guide to how operations management—in particular Lean and the Theory of Constraints (TOC)—can rapidly advance value and performance in any healthcare organization. Utilizing a systems approach that will be relevant for healthcare managers and executives, it unpacks and demystifies concepts such as performance measures, operations, quality, cost accounting, pricing, and value enhancement, all as they relate to eliminating waste and non-value-adding activities.

Honest Work
A Business Ethics Reader
Joanne B. Ciulla, Rutgers Business School; Clancy Martin, University of Missouri-Kansas City, Bloch School of Management; Ashoka University, and Robert C. Solomon
Designed for undergraduate, graduate, and executive business ethics courses, Honest Work: A Business Ethics Reader, Fourth Edition, demonstrates that business ethics is primarily about the ethics of individuals. With a unique focus on the personal dimension of ethics, it challenges students to consider the relationship between the ways in which people do business and the kind of lives they want to live. It features 105 brief articles and 70 real-life case studies and poses study questions at the end of each reading and chapter. In addition, a chapter on leadership explores the relationship between leadership and ethical behavior in business.

Prosperity: Better Business Makes the Greater Good
Colin Mayer, Said Business School, University of Oxford
- A radical reformulation of our notions of business, its roles and responsibilities, and the way it operates
- Argues that the prevailing beliefs about business cause inequality, low growth, poor innovation, and environmental degradation
- Sets out a renewed vision of how the corporation can create both economic and social wellbeing, and how regulatory and taxation can make this a reality

Does business just exist to maximise shareholder profit? The belief it does has had disastrous consequences for our economies, environment, politics, and societies, argues Colin Mayer. In an urgent call for reform, he sets out an agenda to remake the corporation into a powerful force for promoting economic and social wellbeing in its fullest sense.

The Marketization of Employment Services
The Dilemmas of Europe’s Work-First Welfare States
Ian Greer, Cornell University, Karen N. Breidahl, Aalborg University, Matthias Kruth, University of Duisburg-Essen, and Flemming Larsen, Aalborg University
Markets have become the favoured means for re-engineering public services, to reduce costs while increasing innovation, performance, accountability to taxpayers, and responsiveness to clients. This book provides a new conceptualization of the markets, the dilemmas and tradeoffs they generate, and the differing services and workplaces that result.

Honours versus Money
The Economics of Awards
Bruno S. Frey, University of Basel; CREMA - Center for Research in Economics, Management and the Arts, and Jana Gallus, University of California
This book presents a range of empirical evidence to argue that awards can significantly raise performance, even if they are purely symbolic. It makes the case for reorienting our focus away from the monetary or material dimensions of work and private life towards the symbolic dimensions to celebrate merit and achievement.

Talent Without Borders
Global Talent Acquisition for Competitive Advantage
Robert E. Ployhart, and Julian Dalzell
both at University of South Carolina, and Jeff A. Weekley, University of Texas at Dallas

- Offers guidance on the practical issues that influence the implementation of global staffing solutions
- Emphasizes national culture, strategy, and competitive advantage
- Features analytics and data to enable evidence-based decisions

Talent Without Borders offers a practical approach to help managers think about acquiring talent globally. With explicit consideration of real-world issues that influence the implementation of global staffing solutions, the book shows managers how to use analytics and data to enable evidence-based decisions. Emphasizing national culture, strategy, and competitive advantage, it considers the entire talent life cycle, from attraction through retention. Representing a unique blend of expertise in HR executive leadership and consulting with deep technical expertise in the science of recruitment, selection, and assessment, the authors share numerous practical insights. Ultimately, the authors skillfully link staffing to organizational strategy, financial performance, and competitive advantage.

Capitalism Beyond Mutuality?
Perspectives Integrating Philosophy and Social Science
Edited by Subramanian Rangan, INSEAD
Trust in business is declining because business has focused too much on performance and too little on progress. From climate change to unpaid compensation and technology-related fears, our list of concerns is large and growing. This book explores how economic actors might evolve their paradigms, preferences, and practices.

Multiculturalism and Advertising
Indian and European Enterprises under Globalization
Anuradha Bhattacharjee
This book presents a comparative analysis of intercultural advertising through an empirical study of advertisements in two geographically diverse commercial regions – Europe and India. Showing that there is a significant increase in multicultural images, symbols, and texts in advertisements, this book argues that there is a growing congruence of values among different cultures.

Leading Professionals
Power, Politics, and Pelita Daniel
Laura Empson, Cass Business School, London
- Based on 25 years of academic research into professional organizations
- Appeals to both academics and professionals
- One of the first academic books for practitioners that is based on in-depth and rigorous, theoretically grounded academic research
This book reveals the power dynamics and interpersonal politics that lie at the heart of professional organizations. Drawing on the latest academic theory, and based on interviews with over 500 senior professionals, it analyses how professionals come together to create ‘leadership’. It explains how change happens and why leaders so often fail.

Management
FIFTH EDITION
Edited by Don Hellriegel, John W. Slocum, Susan E. Jackson, Trevor Amos, HB Klopper, Lynette Louw, Matheus Louw, Theuns Oosthuizen, Sandra Perks, Gavin Staude, and Stan Zindah
What managerial competencies are required for the workplace? What does corporate social responsibility involve? What is the importance of ethical decision-making in the business world and how do you contribute towards improving ethical conduct in the workplace? The focus of Management 5th edition is to establish the vital competencies of communication; planning and financial management; teamwork; strategic action; global awareness; and emotional intelligence as a necessity to the foundation of management practice. The text prepares students for the workplace within the field of management using practical examples and experiential exercises so that they can apply this knowledge. Management is an introductory text written for students who are studying general management as part of an undergraduate course, either at a university or a university of technology.

The Surprising Science of Meetings
How You Can Lead your Team to Peak Performance
Steven G. Rogelberg, University of North Carolina at Charlotte
• Synthesizes the latest research from management and behavioral science to provide the best plan for managers who lead meetings
• Explains how to get the most out of meetings while reducing wasted time
• Makes the case that simple changes, such as tweaking the length of meetings, can have real impact

No organization made up of human beings is immune from the all-too-common meeting gripes: those that fail to engage, those that inadvertently encourage participants to tune out, and those that blatantly disregard participants’ time. In The Surprising Science of Meetings, Steven G. Rogelberg draws from extensive research, analytics and data mining, and survey interviews to share the proven techniques that help managers and employees change the way they run meetings and upgrade the quality of their working hours.

Public Management Reform

A Comparative Analysis - Into The Age of Austerity

Christopher Pollitt and Geert Bouckaert, both at KU Leuven University

This is the thoroughly revised fourth edition of the widely-used and established standard text on public management reform. The new edition retains the historical perspective back to 1980, but now directly addresses the pervasive effects of the Global Economic Crisis of 2008 on public sectors in the three continents covered.

Evaluation Practice for Collaborative Growth

A Guide to Program Evaluation with Stakeholders and Communities

Lori L. Bakken, Human Ecology at the University of Wisconsin-Madison

This book uniquely captures program evaluation concepts, methods, and strategies that are most useful to nonprofit leaders, social science professionals, and students as they engage in evaluation practice. Readers will learn how to work with key stakeholders to determine answerable questions/design studies and analyze, interpret, and report useful findings.

High Participation Systems of Higher Education

Edited by Brendan Cantwell, Michigan State University, Simon Marginson, University College London, and Anna Smolentseva, National Research University Higher School of Economics

Within a generation we have seen an extraordinary global expansion of Higher Education. By focusing on systems and countries with near universal participation, and by developing a series of propositions about high-participation in Higher Education, this volume explores a transformation in education and society.

Contestants, Profiteers, and the Political Dynamics of Marketization

How Shareholders gained Control Rights in Britain, Germany, and France

Helen Callaghan, Max Planck Institute for the Study of Societies

- Multidisciplinary in appeal; Political Science, Economic History, Sociology, Law and Economics and across the social sciences
- Provides a comparison of Britain, Germany, and France
- Offers an up-to-date introduction to cutting-edge debates across the social sciences

This book highlights the role of ‘profiteers’ in political efforts to expand market-based competition. Political struggles surrounding the gradual marketization of corporate control in Britain, Germany and France from the 1860s provide empirical illustration.

Social science research has lost its way. Much of it is far too specialized, full of inaccessible jargon and cut off from the urgent problems facing our society. This book identifies the cause of the problem and offers a range of constructive measures to bring meaning and relevance back into social science research.
