BUSINESS FINANCE

Prosperity
Better Business Makes the Greater Good
Colin Mayer, University of Oxford
- A radical reformation of our notions of business, its roles and responsibilities, and the way it operates
- Argues that the prevailing beliefs about business cause inequality, low growth, poor innovation, and environmental degradation
- Sets out a renewed vision of how the corporation can create both economic and social wellbeing, and how regulatory and taxation can make this a reality

Does business just exist to maximise shareholder profit? The belief it does has had disastrous consequences for our economies, environment, politics, and societies, argues Colin Mayer. In an urgent call for reform, he sets out an agenda to remake the corporation into a powerful force for promoting economic and social wellbeing in its fullest sense.

Productivity and the Bonus Culture
Andrew Smithers
- Challenges the prevailing myth that the financial crisis is the primary cause of slow growth over the past decade
- Presents evidence to suggest that slow growth is wholly as a result in adverse changes in demography and productivity
- Reveals startling information to show that declining productivity in the UK and US is inextricably linked to low investment induced by the bonus culture

Growth in the US and UK is declining due to poor productivity. This book sets out a revised model which demonstrates that weakness in productivity is the result of the bonus culture, and suggests ways to change this flawed system so that investment is encouraged and growth returns.

Integrating South and East Asia
Economics of Regional Cooperation and Development
Edited by Jayant Menon, Asian Development Bank (ADB), and T.N. Srinivasan, Yale University
Fueled by domestic economic reforms, regional production networks, and bilateral and regional-level initiatives, cooperation and integration between South and East Asia has been steadily growing since 1990s. This book establishes that if such initiatives succeed, they will have the potential to revive economic ties between the two sub-regions, helping them grow to dominate global trade.

ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT & GROWTH
Development
A Very Short Introduction
Ian Goldin, University of Oxford
How do nations escape poverty and achieve economic and social progress? Ian Goldin, a former vice-president of the World Bank, explains what development means in its broadest sense - encompassing education, health, and gender equality as well as economic growth. He discusses the shift from state-led strategies, to ones driven by market forces.

The Goldilocks Challenge
Right-Fit Evidence for the Social Sector
Mary Kay Gugerty, University of Washington, and Dean Karlan, Northwestern University
• Pragmatic guide to creating and implementing data strategies to support learning and evaluation for social sector organizations
• Includes real-world examples of organizations struggling with balancing demands for data with realities of using those data
• Critical importance for non-profit organizations, social enterprises, and governments, engaged in evidence-based programming and policymaking

The recent push for impact measurement has been positive, but it has also led to wasted resources and often misleading data about what works. In The Goldilocks Challenge, Mary Kay Gugerty and Dean Karlan put forth four key principles to guide organizations of all sizes to create strong, “right-fit” data collection systems.

Why and When Top Down Management of Foreign Aid Doesn’t Work

Duncan Green, London School of Economics

- Argues that tight controls and narrow focus on reaching pre-set targets can prevent frontline workers from using their skills and creativity to solve problems on the ground, undermining the performance of foreign aid projects
- Honig draws on a novel database of over 14,000 discrete development projects across nine agencies and eight qualitative studies in making his argument
- Pressure to demonstrate results can undermine performance, particularly when environments are unpredictable and task performance hard to reliably and accurately measure

High-quality implementation of foreign aid interventions sometimes requires employee use of contextual information that will be precluded by tight management control. Drawing from over 130 interviews and statistical analysis of a novel database of over 14,000 discrete development projects, Honig finds that top-down controls sometimes undermine development project success.

Demonetisation and India’s Elusive Chase for Black Money

Edited by R. Ramakumar

Tata Institute of Social Sciences

The book presents long discussions about the initiation of demonetisation in the first part and talks about the policy and its implementation. It further reviews its impact on different spheres of the economy. The second part of the book presents selected writings from a number of research articles and questions captured in the EPW related to the two demonetisations of 1978 and 2016.

The Globotics Upheaval

Globalization, Robotics, and the Future of Work

Richard Baldwin, Graduate Institute, Geneva

In The Globotics Upheaval, Richard Baldwin explains how digital technology will bring globalization and robotics, or “globotics,” to previously unaffected professional and service sectors. Baldwin analyzes how these rapid changes are likely to affect government policies and envisions the future of employment, predicting an increase in face-to-face interaction that will strengthen bonds in local communities.

Immiserizing Growth

When Growth Fails the Poor

Paul Shaffer, Trent University

Edited by Ravi Kanbur, Cornell University, and Richard Sandbrook, University of Toronto

Immiserizing growth occurs when economic growth fails to benefit, or even harms, the poor. This first book-length examination of this phenomenon combines discussion of the mechanisms of immiserizing growth with empirical data on trends in growth, poverty, and related welfare indicators.

Quarter Century of Liberalization in India

Looking Back and Looking Ahead

Essays from EPW

This book examines the 1991 economic reforms from different ideological perspectives and carries forward the debates on the pros and cons of the market-friendly set of policies that shifted the centre of India’s political economy more rightward than ever before. Authors from diverse backgrounds track the origins and continuation of liberal policies, dissecting the role of the state over the last 25 years in addressing issues like poverty, nutrition, and income inequality.

The National Debt
A Short History
Martin Slater

Slater vividly recounts the story of the UK national debt and how attempts to manage it explain many key turning-points in British history: in today’s “austerity era,” the national debt is newsworthy once again. But this phenomenon, while central to today’s politics, can be a highly technical subject. Few people fully understand its implications. This book is written for the lay reader who is not well versed in economics.

Postgrowth Imaginaries
New Ecologies and Counterhegemonic Culture in Post-2008 Spain
Luis I. Prádanos

Postgrowth imaginaries bring together environmental cultural studies and postgrowth economics to examine radical cultural shifts sparked by the global financial crisis. The globalization of an economic culture addicted to constant growth destroys the ecological planetary systems while failing to fulfil its social promises. A transition toward what Prádanos calls ‘postgrowth imaginaries’ - the counterhegemonic cultural sensibilities that are challenging the growth paradigm - is well underway in the Iberian Peninsula today. Accounting for Oneself
Worth, Status, and the Social Order in Early Modern England
Alexandra Shepard, University of Glasgow

A fundamentally new account of the social order in early modern England: the first study to fully incorporate women, to offer comprehensive coverage of the range of social groups from the gentry to the labouring poor and across the life-cycle, and to represent regional variation.

Winner of the American Historical Association’s 2016 Leo Gershoy Award

Capitalism
Competition, Conflict, Crises
Anwar Shaikh, New School for Social Research

In Capitalism, Anwar Shaikh demonstrates that most of the central propositions of economic analysis can be derived without any reference to hyperrationality, optimization, perfect competition, perfect information, representative agents or so-called rational expectations. These include the laws of demand and supply, the determination of wage and profit rates, technological change, relative prices, interest rates, bond and equity prices, exchange rates, terms and balance of trade, growth, unemployment, inflation, and long booms culminating in recurrent general crises.

Relational Inequalities
An Organizational Approach
Donald Tomaskovic-Devey, University of Massachusetts Amherst, and Dustin Avent-Holt, Georgia Regents University

Relational Inequalities argues that inequalities in resources, rewards, and respect are relational, produced within and between workplaces. Generic inequality processes are identified and multiple qualitative, quantitative, and historical case studies developed to demonstrate organizational variation in the types and levels of inequalities, as well as the institutional contexts shaping this variation.

Wall Street: A History
FOURTH EDITION
Charles G. Geisst
Manhattan College
This updated edition covers the slow recovery following the lowest points of the Great Recession and the tensions of regulation. Geisst illustrates the cyclical nature of Wall Street as recent crises are strikingly reminiscent of past economic failings. As Wall Street and America have changed irrevocably after the crisis, Charles G. Geisst offers the definitive chronicle of the relationship between the two, and the challenges and successes it has fostered that have shaped our history.

Shadow Networks
Financial Disorder and the System that Caused Crisis
Francisco Louçã, ISEG, Lisbon University, and Michael Ash, University of Massachusetts Amherst
- Challenges pervading narratives of the financial crisis to argue that economic collapse is ingrained in the shadow networks of finance
- Examines an overwhelming variety of branches of the powerful elite to examine how economic actors have mobilized institutions and networks to their advantage
Many accounts of the financial crisis focus on renegade activity in marginal financial sectors. This book argues that far from this prevailing view the shadow finance that initiated the crisis is tightly networked with bank-based finance. It traces these networks to explain how the now decade-long crisis took shape.

Headquarters Economy
Managers, Mobility, and Migration
J. Myles Shaver, University of Minnesota
- Offers a new explanation of regional economic vitality
- Empirically grounded investigation, using examples and case studies from well known organizations
- Highlights the role of managers in ‘headquarters economies’, extending the focus of current discussion beyond technologies or creatives
By investigating the headquarters economy of Minneapolis-St. Paul, and exploring the management strategies of headquarters, this book surveys the characteristics of influential dynamic economies, demonstrating how factors such as managers, mobility, and migration create a virtuous cycle that strengthens companies and draws in additional talent.

Uncertain Futures
Imaginaries, Narratives, and Calculation in the Economy
Edited by Jens Becket
Max Planck Institute for the Study of Societies, and Richard Bronk
London School of Economics and Political Science
• Suggests alternative microfoundations for economics in conditions of uncertainty to replace the rational expectations hypothesis
• Focuses on use of narratives in empirical economic settings
Uncertain Futures considers how economists visualize the future and decide how to act in conditions of uncertainty. Because dynamic capitalist economies are characterized by innovation and novelty they exhibit an indeterminacy that cannot be reduced. This book questions how expectations can be formed and decisions made in spite of uncertainty.

Cracking the Emerging Markets Enigma
G. Andrew Karolyi
Cornell University
Cracking the Emerging Markets Enigma outlines a rigorous, comprehensive, and practical framework for evaluating the opportunities and, more importantly, the risks of investing in emerging markets. Built on a foundation of sound research on foreign direct and portfolio capital flows, Andrew Karolyi’s proposed system of evaluation incorporates multiple dimensions of the potential risks faced by prospective investors in an empirically coherent framework.

How Persistent Low Returns Will Shape Saving and Retirement
Edited by Olivia S. Mitchell
University of Pennsylvania, Robert Clark
North Carolina State University, and Raimond Maurer
Goethe University
This book explores how the weak capital market performance predicted for the next several years will shape pension saving, investment, and decumulation plans. Academics, policymakers, and industry leaders debate alternative strategies to cope with these challenges globally, as economic growth remains slow and low returns become the “new normal.”

The Antitrust Revolution
Economics, Competition, and Policy
SEVENTH EDITION
John E. Kwoka, Northeastern University and Lawrence J. White, New York University
Fully updated to reflect important developments in antitrust economics, this book examines the critical role of economic analysis in recent antitrust case decisions and policy. The case studies—more than three-quarters of which are entirely new—are written by prominent economists who participated in the proceedings of that case. New and revised appendices support a number of the case studies and help students with the analysis of those cases.

Why Superman Doesn’t Take Over The World
What Superheroes Can Tell Us About Economics
J. Brian O’Roark, Robert Morris University

- A fun and fresh and entertaining introduction to economics
- All the basic concepts are introduced through a tongue-in-cheek look at the dilemmas superheroes face

Why do some superheroes have day jobs? Why do villains keep trying even though they almost never win? Why don’t heroes simply take over the world? With brilliant deadpan humour, comic aficionado professor J. Brian O’Roark uses the tools of economics to explain superheroes, and the world of superheroes to explain economics.

Decent Incomes for All
Improving Policies in Europe
Edited by Bea Cantillon, and Tim Goedemé, both at University of Antwerp, and John Hills, London School of Economics and Political Science

Decent Incomes for All sheds new light on recent poverty trends in the European Union and the corresponding responses by European welfare states. The authors analyze the effect of social and fiscal policies before, during, and after the recent economic crisis, and study the impact of alternative policy packages on poverty and inequality.

Health Equity in a Globalizing Era
Past Challenges, Future Prospects
Ronald Labonté, and Arne Ruckert, both at University of Ottawa

This title discusses how globalization impacts the health of individuals and populations. It focuses on how globalization processes have impacted various social determinants of health such as income, employment, or migration patterns, and how this in turn shapes inequities in health outcomes.

Meet the Food Radicals
F. Bailey Norwood, and Tamara L. Mix, both at Oklahoma State University

Meet the Food Radicals introduces the reader to twenty-seven individuals to offer insight into practices and solutions that shape how we farm, how our food system operates, and how we eat. Neither valorizing nor criticizing any of the views, the authors aim for understanding and to “translate” different farming philosophies, food politics, and notions about how agriculture and the economy interact for a broader audience of economists, social scientists, and ordinary consumers.

Governing the World’s Biggest Market
The Politics of Derivatives Regulation After the 2008 Crisis
Edited by Eric Helleiner, University of Waterloo, Stefano Pagliari, City University of London, and Irene Spagna, University of Waterloo

What has been done since the 2008 financial crisis to reform the regulation of derivatives markets? The volume analyzes the goals, limitations, and unexpected outcomes associated with post-crisis international initiatives to regulate these markets, as well as the different transnational, inter-state, and domestic political dynamics that have shaped these outcomes.

EuroTragedy
A Drama in Nine Acts
Ashoka Mody, Princeton University; Former Deputy Director, International Monetary Fund

• Points to the contradictions in the European pursuit of unity as the goals of peace, prosperity, and democratic ideals inevitably came into conflict
• Sweeping narrative that focuses on key personalities, their ambitions, and their limitations
• Offers profound insights into the roots of Europe’s disorder, including the discontent of the disadvantaged with the political systems and elites

EuroTragedy is an incisive exploration of the tragedy of how the European push for integration was based on illusions and delusions pursued in the face of warnings that the pursuit of unity was based on weak foundations.

Raise the Debt
How Developing Countries Choose Their Creditors

Jonas B. Bunte, University of Texas-Dallas

This book systematically explains how governments choose among competing loan offers. As the strings attached to loans vary across creditors, domestic interest groups prefer one type of creditor to the other. However, interest groups disagree about which creditor is preferable. Governments cater to whichever domestic interest group coalition is dominant by borrowing from the coalition’s preferred creditor. The book offers evidence from Ecuador, Peru, and Colombia as well as an extensive statistical analysis. The results show that borrowing portfolios around the world reflect the relative strength of societal interest groups.

Multiculturalism and Advertising
Indian and European Enterprises under Globalization

Anuradha Bhattacharjee, Consultant

Advertising is not only a useful index to measure globalization, but also a catalyst to increasing interconnections between economies and cultures. This book presents a comparative analysis of intercultural advertising through an empirical study of advertisements in two geographically diverse commercial regions—Europe and India. Showing that there is a significant increase in multicultural images, symbols, and texts in advertisements, this book argues that there is a growing congruence of values among different cultures.

Youth Labor in Transition
Inequalities, Mobility, and Policies in Europe
Edited by Jacqueline O’Reilly, University of Sussex, Business School, Janine Leschke, Copenhagen Business School, Renate Ortlieb, University of Graz, Martin Seeleib-Kaiser, Institute of Systems Theory and Optimization, Berlin, and Paola Villa, University of Trento
Exacerbated by the Great Recession, youth transitions to employment and adulthood have become increasingly protracted, precarious, and differentiated by gender, ethnicity, and socioeconomic status. Examining employment transitions affected by family and migration, Youth Labor in Transition argues for an integrated analysis of the sphere of economic production and social reproduction if policy intervention is to be effective.

Spending Time
The Most Valuable Resource
Daniel S. Hamermesh, University of Texas at Austin
• Comprehensive description of how Americans and people in other rich countries spend time
• Shows how different America is from other countries
• Clear discussion of how the rich behave differently from the rest of us
Time is the ultimate scarce resource and thus quintessentially a topic for economics, the study of scarcity. Starting with the observation that time is increasingly valuable given competing demands as we have more things we can buy and do, Spending Time provides engaging insights into how people use their time and what determines their decisions about spending their time.

Living Wage
Regulatory Solutions to Informal and Precarious Work in Global Supply Chains
Shelley Marshall, RMIT University
This book is driven by a quest to re-regulate work to reduce informality and inequality, and promote a living wage for more people across the world. This timely work presents a plan for the incremental increase of minimum wages across all nations and a method for their enforcement though a new international labour law.

Inclusive Dualism
Labour-intensive Development, Decent Work, and Surplus Labour in Southern Africa
Nicoli Nattrass, and Jeremy Seekings, both at University of Cape Town
This book uses the South African case to argue for inclusive dualism as a development strategy in surplus labour countries. It shows that low-productivity firms can co-exist and challenges the notion that a race to the bottom is inevitable.

The Oxford Handbook of Financial Regulation
Edited by Niamh Moloney, London School of Economics, Ellis Ferran, University of Cambridge, St Catharine’s College, and Jennifer Payne, University of Oxford; Worton College

The Oxford Handbook of Financial Regulation is the first comprehensive, state-of-the-art survey of the nature and function of financial regulation. Written by an international team of leading scholars in the field, it takes a contextual and comparative approach to examine clarity, policy, and regulatory developments in the past three decades.

Innovation in Energy Law and Technology

Dynamic Solutions for Energy Transitions
Edited by Donald Zillman, University of Maine at Fort Kent; Lee Godden, The University of Melbourne; LeRoy Paddock, George Washington University, and Martha Roggenkamp, University of Groningen

As energy innovation becomes imperative for the environment and energy security, the law must be fleet-footed to evolve in an unwieldy area of policy. This much-needed text assembles experts to analyse the most recent developments, and to postulate how human rights, sustainable development, and the eradication of energy poverty could be achieved.

The Human Rights Covenants at 50

Their Past, Present, and Future
Edited by Daniel Moeckli, University of Zurich, and Helen Keller, University of Zurich; European Court of Human Rights

Consultant Editor: Corina Heri, University of Amsterdam

Fifty years after the UN General Assembly adopted the two human rights covenants, this volume brings together contributions considering the key issues facing the international human rights system today, taking stock of the achievements of the covenants, assessing their current influence, and exploring the future challenges facing them.

The Labour Constitution

The Enduring Idea of Labour Law
Ruth Dukes, University of Glasgow

Via a comparison of traditional understandings of labour law with market-focused approaches brought to the fore by globalization, Dukes contends that the labour constitution continues to offer a vital framework for scholarly analysis, emphasizing the critical nature of the link between democracy and the protection of workers' rights.

Mafia Life

Love, Death, and Money at the Heart of Organized Crime
Federico Varese, University of Oxford

Today, mafias operate across the globe, with hundreds of thousands of members and billions of dollars in revenue. From Hong Kong to New York, these vast organizations spread their tentacles into politics, finance and everyday life. Criminologist Federico Varese draws on a lifetime’s research to show how recent Supreme Court decisions and political analysis, this book... is the.../fleet-footed to evolve in an unwieldy area of policy. This much-needed text assembles experts to analyse the most recent developments, and to postulate how human rights, sustainable development, and the eradication of energy poverty could be achieved.

Politics and Capital

Auctioning the American Dream
John Attanasio, International Academic Institute of Legal Process and Procedure

Using both theoretical methods and practical political analysis, this book shows how recent Supreme Court decisions and campaign finance regulations map onto a pernicious and growing inequality in America. A profound synthesis of theory and practice, Politics and Capital is crucial to understanding the ominous political and economic problems besetting twenty-first century America.

Law and the Political Economy of Hunger
Anna Chadwick, University of Glasgow
After the global food crisis of 2007-2011, many Non-Government Organizations blamed speculators trading in commodity derivatives, viewing speculator driven high price volatility in grain markets as culpable for the disaster. Chadwick disagrees, arguing that current legal regimes bear far more responsibility for the tragedy of world hunger.

Contradictions of Democracy
Vigilantism and Rights in Post-Apartheid South Africa
Nicholas Rush Smith, City University of New York City College

Despite being one of the world’s most vibrant democracies, vigilantism is regularly practiced in South Africa. Based on twenty months of field work, Contradictions of Democracy shows why, explores what South Africa reveals about vigilantism in other democracies, and uses vigilantism to explore the contradictions of democracy more generally.

The Microeconomics of Product Innovation

Paul Stoneman, University of Warwick, Eleonora Bartolini, National Institute for Statistics (ISTAT), and Maurizio Bausola, Università Cattolica del Sacro Cuore

Economics has not given sufficient attention to the microeconomic analysis of innovation and technological change. Counteracting this imbalance, The Microeconomics of Product Innovation considers how the use of economic analysis can guide and inform the search for insight in the generation and adoption of new products synonymously labelled product innovation.

The Fiscalization of Social Policy
How Taxpayers Trumped Children in the Fight Against Child Poverty
Joshua T. McCabe
Wellesley College

The earned income tax credit (EITC) and child tax credit (CTC) are tax credits for low-income families that paradoxically exclude the poorest families. This book challenges the conventional wisdom on American exceptionalism and offers the first and only comparative analysis of the politics on these important anti-poverty tax credits.

The Political Economy of Italy’s Decline
Andrea Lorenzo Capussela

A unique attempt to retrace the deeper causes of Italy’s decline
Uses institutional analysis of Italy’s socio-economic problems to explore both the historical and economic causes of its downward trajectory
Focuses on the relatively understudied transition phases between the open-access and limited-access social order

Italy is a country of recent decline and long-standing idiosyncratic traits - a rich society where the rule of law is weak and political accountability is low. This book draws on political economic literature and historical analysis to argue that a battle of ideas can ease the shift to a fairer and more efficient equilibrium.
