Sinews of Power
The Politics of the State Grid Corporation of China
Xu Yi-chong
Griffith University

Electricity is a basic requirement for a modern economy, and it is also at the centre of transition to low-carbon energy production and consumption. Large state-owned enterprises have been controversial in China and globally. Are they puppets of government or modern corporations?

By examining the rise and rise of the State Grid Corporation of China, with its 1.2 billion customers, the book weaves together the electricity story and the SOE story to throw new light on China’s political economy and on the future of electricity world-wide.

Behavioural Economics: A Very Short Introduction
Michelle Baddeley. University College London
Behavioural economics blends insights from economics and psychology to explain how people make everyday decisions. Analysing the forces that drive everyone’s behaviour it helps us understand what people are motivated by, our impulse purchases, why we struggle to save, and how supermarkets can manipulate what and how much we buy.

Normal Rationality: Decisions and Social Order
Edna Ullmann-Margalit. Hebrew University of Jerusalem
Edited by Avishai Margalit, Hebrew University of Jerusalem, and Cass R. Sunstein, Harvard University
This is a selection of the most important work of Edna Ullmann-Margalit, an unorthodox and deeply original philosopher whose work illuminates the largest mysteries of human life. It centres on two questions: How do people proceed when they cannot act on the basis of reasons, or project likely consequences? How is social order possible?
UK: Sep 2017 / US: Sep 2017

Finance for Normal People: How Investors and Marketers Deceive
Meir Statman. Leavey School of Business, Santa Clara University
• Offers behavioral finance as a unified structure that incorporates parts of standard finance, replaces others, and includes bridges between theory, evidence, and practice
• The first book to offer a unified structure of finance, beyond cognitive and emotional errors
• Chapters discuss the crisis of retirement savings and personal money management and how to address the perennial problem of insufficient saving
Finance for Normal People teaches behavioral finance to people like you and me – normal people, neither rational nor irrational. We are consumers, savers, investors, and managers – corporate managers, money managers, financial advisers, and all other financial professionals.

Honours versus Money
The Economics of Awards
Bruno S. Frey. University of Basel and Center for Research in Economics, Management and the Arts, and Jana Gallus. Anderson School of Management, University of California
• The only book to fully explore the economics of awards
• Covers an innovative and engaging topic in an easily accessible manner
• Provides related empirically grounded readings to enable a broad view of the subject
This book presents a range of empirical evidence to argue that awards can significantly raise performance, even if they are purely symbolic. It makes the case for reorienting our focus away from the monetary or material dimensions of work and private life towards the symbolic dimensions to celebrate merit and achievement.

ECONOMETRICS & MATHEMATICAL ECONOMICS

Equilibrium Models in Economics
Lawrence A. Boland, Simon Fraser University

The concept of equilibrium is fundamental to economic theory, according to which, it exists when supply and demand are balanced. Equilibrium Models in Economics critically examines the major problematic assumptions employed to build equilibrium models. It gives particular attention to the assumptions used to characterize learning, knowledge and expectations.

Foundations of Info-Metrics
Modeling, Inference, and Imperfect Information
Amos Golan, American University

Foundations of Info-Metrics provides an overview of modeling and inference, rather than a problem specific model, and progresses from the simple premise that information is often insufficient to provide a unique answer for decisions we wish to make. Each decision, or solution, is derived from the available input information along with a choice of inferential procedure.

Towards a Better Global Economy

Edited by Franklin Allen, Andrew Steer, and Dani Rodrik, Harvard University, Peterson Institute for International Economics and Center for Global Development

This volume examines the factors that are most likely to facilitate economic growth in low-, middle-, and high-income economies. Fluctuations in international trade, financial markets, and commodity prices, as well as the tendency of institutions to favor the interests of the better-off and powerful, pose risks for citizens of all countries. This collection brings together internationally-renowned experts to offer a comprehensive review of how politics shapes inclusive development in the global south. Each aspect of development is covered: social, economic, environmental, and cultural with each chapter offering a review of the evidence in the relevant field.

Giving with a Thousand Hands
The Changing Face of Indian Philanthropy
Pushpa Sundar. Indian Centre for Philanthropy, New Delhi
Making an important distinction between charity and philanthropy, Giving with a Thousand Hands argues that while charity is alive and well in India, the country is short on philanthropy defined as altruistic giving on a large enough scale to bring about transformative social change.
The author in this book offers a vision for the future of Indian philanthropy, maintaining that it has a vital role to play in the country and needs to be encouraged through various measures.

The Many Faces of Socioeconomic Change
John Toye, University of Oxford
• Covers a broad scope of content, from Adam Smith to the present day
• Accessible and clear, providing a non-technical exposition of academic thinking
• Uses a range of case-studies including non-mainstream authors
Development is not a purely economic phenomenon; it also has a strong sociological element. This book surveys narratives of how development occurs, starting with early evolutionary models and moving on to recent types of development theory, outlining the main long term changes in how socioeconomic development has been envisaged through time.

Development
A Very Short Introduction
Ian Goldin, Oxford Martin School; University of Oxford
How do nations escape poverty and achieve economic and social progress? Ian Goldin, a former vice-president of the World Bank, explains what development means in its broadest sense – encompassing education, health, and gender equality as well as economic growth. He discusses the shift from state-led strategies, to ones driven by market forces.

The Goldilocks Challenge
Right-Fit Evidence for the Social Sector
Mary Kay Gugerty, Evans School of Public Policy and Governance, University of Washington, and Dean Karlan, Northwestern University
The recent push for impact measurement has been positive, but it has also led to wasted resources and often misleading data about what works. In The Goldilocks Challenge, Mary Kay Gugerty and Dean Karlan put forth four key principles to guide organizations of all sizes to create strong, ‘right-fit’ data collection systems.

Profits and Sustainability
A History of Green Entrepreneurship
Geoffrey Jones, Harvard Business School
Deals with the little known history of green business
Addresses the key issue of whether business and sustainability are compatible
Covers many different industries including organic food, natural beauty, wind and solar energy, recycling, architecture, and finance

Today we imagine green business to be a new thing. This book shows that it is not, and that there were green entrepreneurs who had huge concerns about environmental sustainability, and built businesses that they hoped could address these issues, including Whole Foods Market, Aveda, and The Body Shop, among others.

Adam Smith
Systematic Philosopher and Public Thinker
Eric Schliesser.
University of Amsterdam
Adam Smith was a famous economist and moral philosopher. This book treats Smith also as a systematic philosopher with a distinct epistemology, an original theory of the passions, and a surprising philosophy mind. The book argues that there is a close, moral connection between Smith’s systematic thought and his policy recommendations.

Chains of Finance

How Investment Management is Shaped

Diane-Laure Arjaliès, Ivy Business School, Western University. Philip Grant, Iain Hardie, and Donald Mackenzie, all at University of Edinburgh, and Ekaterina Svetlova, University of Leicester

This book suggests that investment decisions cannot be understood by focusing on isolated investors. Rather, most of their money flows through a chain: a sequence of intermediaries that ‘sit between’ savers and companies/governments. It argues that investment management is shaped by the opportunities and constraints that this chain creates.

The Future of Indian Universities
Comparative and International Perspectives
Edited by C. Raj Kumar, O.P. Jindal Global University
This volume argues that universities ought to be dynamic institutions where new ideas are exchanged, mistakes made, and lessons learnt. The contributors highlight the fact that the university system in India is based upon a bureaucratic command and control system that constrains the freedom and liberty required for academic pursuit, and disallows flourishing of academic cultures in tandem with the changing demands of India’s economy and democracy.

Global Health Justice and Governance
Jennifer Prah Ruger, University of Pennsylvania
In a world beset by extreme and unconscionable health disparities humankind desperately needs a new vision to ensure central health capabilities for all. This book lays out the profound health challenges facing the world today and offers a new theory of justice and governance as a way to resolve these seemingly intractable problems.

The Captured Economy
How the Powerful Enrich Themselves, Slow Down Growth, and Increase Inequality
Brink Lindsey, Cato Institute, and Steven M. Teles, Johns Hopkins University
In The Captured Economy, Brink Lindsey and Steven M. Teles identify a new culprit for increasing inequality: the government-corporate sector nexus. They explain why the perverted form of governance that this alliance has created subverts the goals of egalitarian-minded policymakers and suggest feasible policies to correct the problem.

Advancing Human Development
Theory and Practice
Frances Stewart, University of Oxford, Gustav Ranis, and Emma Samman, Overseas Development Institute
Human Development is a prime goal of many development strategies. This book explains what Human Development is, and how it emerged from previous development methods. By exploring developments over the last forty years, it explains what makes for success and failure, and how progress has been made across the globe.

Poverty
A Very Short Introduction
Philip N. Jefferson, Swarthmore College
This Very Short Introduction considers who the poor are, where they live, what their lives are like, and what obstacles or barriers they face. Looking at the complex issues that cause the prevalence, depth, and severity of poverty to vary across countries and over time, it considers possible future solutions.

Econophysics and Financial Economics
An Emerging Dialogue
Franck Jovanovic, School of Administrative Sciences, University of Quebec, and Christophe Schinckus, School of Management, University of Leicester

This book provides the first extensive analytic comparison between models and results from econophysics and financial economics in an accessible and common vocabulary. Unlike other publications dedicated to econophysics, it situates this field in the evolution of financial economics by laying the foundations for common theoretical framework and models.

Bombay’s People, 1860–98

Insolvents in the City

Asiya Siddiqui, University of Bombay

Fluctuations in the global price of cotton had a cataclysmic effect on the people of Bombay. Based on close to 20,000 individual petitions of insolvent submitted to the Bombay High Court during the second half of the nineteenth century, this work maps patterns of income, literacy levels and connections between religion and occupation. The author explores local, colonial and global relationships during a crucial phase of the transformation of Indian economy and society.

A Century of Fiscal Squeeze Policies

100 Years of Austerity, Politics, and Bureaucracy in Britain

Christopher Hood, All Souls College, University of Oxford, and Rozana Himaz, Oxford Brookes University

This volume identifies and compares ‘fiscal squeezes’ in the UK over a century from 1900 to 2015. The authors examine how different the politics of fiscal squeeze and austerity is today from what it was a century ago, how (if at all) fiscal squeezes reshaped the state and the provision of public services, and how political credit and blame played out after austerity episodes.

Making Africa Work
A Handbook
Greg Mills, and Dickie Davis both at Brenchfond Foundation, Olusegun Obasanjo, and Jeffrey Herbst: Newseum

Sub-Saharan Africa faces three big inter-related challenges over the next generation. It will double its population to two billion by 2045. By then more than half of Africans will be living in cities. And this group of mostly young people will be connected with each other and the world through mobile devices. Making Africa Work is a first-hand account and handbook of how to ensure growth beyond commodities and create jobs in the continent.

The Architecture of Illegal Markets
Towards an Economic Sociology of Illegality in the Economy
Edited by Jens Beckert, and Matias Dewey, both at Max Planck Institute for the Study of Societies
This book makes a contribution to understanding the structure of markets on which such illegal transactions occur. The authors apply the tools of economic sociology to develop conceptual frames allowing to understand the organization of such markets and present case studies that provide insights into the illegal side of the economy.

NEW EDITION

Foundations of Modern Macroeconomics

THIRD EDITION

Ben J. Heijdra, University of Groningen

- Fully updated and substantially revised to reflect current thinking in macroeconomics
- Brand new chapters covering highly topical subjects such as dynamic programming, competitive risk sharing equilibria and the New Keynesian DSGE approach
- Broad coverage bridging the gap between undergraduate economics and the state of the art literature

Using nothing more than undergraduate mathematical skills this book takes the reader from basic IS-LM-style macro models to the state of the art literature on Dynamic Stochastic General Equilibrium. Dealing with all major topics it summarizes important approaches and provides a coherent angle on macroeconomic thought.

Economics of Monetary Union

TWELFTH EDITION

Paul De Grauwe, London School of Economics

The twelfth edition of Economics of Monetary Union provides a concise analysis of the theories and policies relating to monetary union. The author addresses current issues surrounding the Eurozone, including a critical discussion of the costs and benefits of possible exits by its member countries, and detail on the sovereign debt crisis.

Central Banking in Turbulent Times

Francesco Papadia, Bruegel, and Tuomas Välimäki, Bank of Finland

An examination of the post-recession responsibilities of central banks, this book proposes adaptations to the central banking model that preserve the advantages in terms of inflation control brought by their independence, while taking into account the long-term consequences of the Great Recession.

The Economics of Consumption

Tullio Jappelli, University of Naples, Federico II; Centre for Economic Policy Research, London; Center for Financial Studies, Frankfurt; and Luigi Pistarferri, Stanford University; Stanford Institute for Economic Policy Research

- Provides synthesis of a vast research field in a coherent way, and in a way that is accessible to students and policy analysts
- Each chapter starts with an overview highlighting important concepts developed in previous chapters and ends with a summary drawing its main message
- Maintains a systematic link between the chapters, gradually expanding the basic model to cover more advanced material in the later chapters

In The Economics of Consumption, Tullio Jappelli and Luigi Pistarferri provide a comprehensive examination of the most important developments in the field of consumption decisions and evaluate economic models against empirical evidence.

No Ordinary Woman
The Life of Edith Penrose
Angela Penrose

- The first biography of Edith Penrose, author of The Theory of the Growth of the Firm, a remarkable woman and distinguished scholar
- Accessibly written
- The book tells her personal and professional story, weaving it through significant historical events of the twentieth century, reflecting the upheavals and dichotomies of the times

A biography of one of the most under-rated economists of the 20th century, whose own remarkable and eventful life paralleled key events of the twentieth century. Edith Penrose's work is now the cornerstone of current work in business strategy and entrepreneurship.

The Microeconomics of Product Innovation
Paul Stoneman, Warwick Business School, University of Warwick, Eleonora Bartoloni, National Institute for Statistics (ISTAT), and Maurizio Baussola, Università Cattolica del Sacro Cuore

Economics has not given sufficient attention to the microeconomic analysis of innovation and technological change. Counteracting this imbalance, The Microeconomics of Product Innovation considers how the use of economic analysis can guide and inform the search for insight in the generation and adoption of new products synonymously labelled product innovation.

PHILOSOPHY OF ECONOMICS

Evolution of Economic Ideas
Adam Smith to Amartya Sen and Beyond
Vinay Bharat-Ram, Population Foundation of India
Vinay Bharat-Ram, in this delightful and breezy read, offers revealing glimpses into the lives and social circumstances of some of the most influential economic thinkers who have determined the way we understand economics today. Brimming with fascinating nuggets from their lives, this book journeys from Adam Smith’s free-market capitalism to Amartya Sen’s welfare economics and beyond, demystifying several momentous economic developments along the way.

NEW IN PAPERBACK
Economics Rules
Why Economics Works, When It Fails, and How To Tell The Difference
Dani Rodrik, John F. Kennedy School of Government, Harvard University
Economists are widely reviled and their profession has become a favourite punching bag in the aftermath of the financial crisis. Yet their services have never been in greater demand. To unravel the paradox, we need to understand both the strengths and weaknesses of economics. This book offers both a defence and critique of the field.

NEW IN PAPERBACK
Macroeconomics and the Phillips Curve Myth
James Forder, Balliol College, University of Oxford
Reconsiders the role of the Phillips curve in macroeconomic analysis in the first twenty years following the famous work by A.W. Phillips, after whom it is named.

The Oxford Handbook of Philosophy of Economics
Edited by Harold Kincaid, University of Cape Town; University of Helsinki, and Don Ross, University College Cork, University of Cape Town; Georgia State University
This volume is the first comprehensive, cohesive, and accessible reference source to the philosophy of economics, presenting important new scholarship by top scholars.

Central Banks into the Breach
From Triumph to Crisis and the Road Ahead
Pierre L. Siklos, Viessmann European Research Centre, Wilfrid Laurier University
- Examines the position of central banks throughout the Global Financial Crisis and the lasting effects of their actions on the global economy
- Determines the potential conflicts between the movement of financial markets and the speed of macroeconomic variables that dictate the conduct of monetary policy
- Offers a broad analysis of the reasons central banking is a broken system and what can be done to help repair it
Central Banks into the Breach provides an overarching analysis of the current and vulnerable state of central banks and offers potential solutions to stabilize the uncertain future of central banking.

The Political Economy of Italy’s Decline
Andrea Lorenzo Capussela
- A unique attempt to retrace the deeper causes of Italy’s decline
- Uses institutional analysis of Italy’s politico-economic problems to explore both the historical and economic causes of its downward trajectory
- Focuses on the relatively understudied transition phases between the open-access and limited-access social order
Italy is a country of recent decline and long-standing idiosyncratic traits—a rich society where the rule of law is weak and political accountability is low. This book draws on political economic literature and historical analysis to argue that a battle of ideas can ease the shift to a fairer and more efficient equilibrium.
