- Bell, Bryman and Harley Prize – worth £100 of OUP books
- Crane, Matten, Glozer, and Spence Prize – worth £100 of OUP books
- The OUP Marketing Prize – worth £200 of OUP books

Economics Prize:
- Achievement in Economics Prize – worth £150 of OUP books

Politics Prizes:
- Achievement in Politics Prize – worth £150 of OUP books
- Baylis, Smith and Owens Prize – worth £150 of OUP books

To find out more about our programme of goodwill initiatives, and how you and your department can get involved please contact hecontact@oup.com or visit the website: www.oxfordtextbooks.co.uk
Since 2005, Oxford University Press has run a variety of student panels for undergraduate students in the UK and Europe. This has helped us better understand students’ learning needs, and has helped us gather their views and opinions so we can continue to make our textbooks as student-focused as we can.

With over 150 students taking part in our four social science panels – business, economics, accounting, and politics – we are able to gather a wealth of data which enables us to tailor pedagogical features, learning resources, and jacket covers. By better meeting student needs, we hope to improve student engagement with our textbooks, so that when you come to teach your students in the classroom, you are able to expand on their understanding and stimulate further critical thinking.

1. Oxford contacts members of the student panel to complete an online survey about a chapter or book review, design feature, pedagogy, or jacket images.

2. The editorial team analyse the results and alter the development of the textbook in response to the student feedback.

3. As a result, students have a better learning experience and engage with their subject matter.

To find out more or to see how your students can apply send us an email:

- BUSINESS: businessrep@oup.com
- ECONOMICS: economicsrep@oup.com
- POLITICS: politicsrep@oup.com
- ACCOUNTING: accountingrep@oup.com

We reward our panellists with credits that can be used to spend on OUP books.
Our promise to you

Oxford University Press has a team of dedicated campus representatives who visit institutions across the UK, Europe, and Middle East.

They are committed to providing a high level of service and support; from ensuring your conversations with them are constructive and helpful, to making sure the books your students need are delivered to the bookshops on time.

They will:

- consult with you to establish your requirements;
- provide you with relevant materials in the right format for you;
- ensure you are familiar with and have access to any accompanying online resources;
- offer live demonstrations of online resources to your students, at your invitation;
- provide you with the highest quality materials for your teaching needs;
- package textbooks together to ensure the best value for your students and department.

We don’t believe you’ll receive a better level of ongoing support from any other publisher.

Contact your campus representative at any time using the details opposite, or go online to find out who calls at your institution.
