A note about nouns

When you look up an English noun, your dictionary tells you

- whether the French noun is masculine or feminine.

  dog noun
  le chien masc

- whether it has an irregular plural form (different from just adding -s).

  newspaper noun
  le journal masc (pl les journaux)

With this information, you not only know what the right French word is, but you can use it correctly.

On the farm

Look up the words in your dictionary and label the animals in French.

Check:
1) If only one animal: le or la?   2) If more than one animal: plural form?

EXTRA

Write the letters in the boxes in the order of the exercise, and you’ll get the name of another animal in French: une __________________ .

In English this is an __________________ .
