1. Use the words below to fill the gaps in this newspaper report. All the words are from the words web for clothes and the writing tips for crime, face, and hair in the Oxford English Thesaurus for Schools.

   - CSI
   - pyjamas
   - clue
   - hoody
   - inquiry
   - jutting
   - accomplice
   - scar
   - bloodstain
   - jeans
   - witness
   - fingerprints
   - scarf
   - tip-off
   - DNA sample
   - straggly

   MAN ATTACKED IN HIS OWN HOME

   A man in his twenties was savagely attacked in his own home yesterday. The victim, who has not yet been named, was found slumped on his bed, wearing striped ____________ and with a ____________ tied round his face.

   Police who are investigating the crime say that ____________ have confirmed that a ____________ on the carpet was not the victim’s blood, and they are using this to obtain a ____________ ____________. Investigators have also dusted for ____________ in the room, and have found clothing fibres which they think could provide an important _____________.

   Police have had a ____________ which suggests that the attacker may have been working with an ____________ , as a ____________ saw a tall youth with ____________ brown hair, wearing baggy ____________ and a ripped ____________, running from the victim’s home towards a waiting car, which then sped away. The getaway driver was described as having a ____________ chin, with a ____________ across his right cheek.

   Anyone who has any further information which may help the police in this ____________ is urged to contact them as soon as possible.

2. Practise your descriptive skills with this game.

   Guess who

   - Each person writes a detailed description of a famous person on a small piece of paper, along with the name of the famous person. Do not let others see the description or answer.
   - Now take it in turns to read out the description, and ask the rest of the group to write down who they think is being described.
   - When everyone has had a turn, share the answers. The member of the group with the most correct answers is the winner.