Not in the dictionary? Oh yes it is!

1 Three steps to arrive at German plural words
Write a) the singular word in English
b) the singular word in German (you’ll find it in your dictionary)
c) the German word in the plural (you’ll find it in brackets beside the singular form!

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>lorries</th>
<th>1 teeth</th>
<th>2 leaves</th>
<th>3 men</th>
<th>4 children</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>lorry</td>
<td>____</td>
<td>____</td>
<td>____</td>
<td>____</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>der Lastwagen</td>
<td>____</td>
<td>____</td>
<td>____</td>
<td>____</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>die Lastwagen</td>
<td>____</td>
<td>____</td>
<td>____</td>
<td>____</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

*TIP
Your dictionary gives you the gender of the words:
der + word (masculine); die + word (feminine); das + word (neuter)

2 Identifying the right verbs
Read the sentences. Then write the infinitive a) in English and b) in German.

1 Have you written to her? We’re writing an essay.
a) Englisch: ________ write________ b) Deutsch: ________ schreiben________

2 Our team is losing. I’ve lost my money.
a) Englisch: ________________ b) Deutsch: ________________

3 I did my homework. He’s doing well.
a) Englisch: ________________ b) Deutsch: ________________

4 Sarah saw the new film. Have you seen it too?
a) Englisch: ________________ b) Deutsch: ________________