Clive Keeps His Cool

Writing Composition

When authors plan their stories they think carefully about who is going to read the book, and what those people want to find inside its pages.

Plan a story that you think your best friend would like to read.
Fill in this planning sheet:

Friend’s name: __________________________ Age: __________

Interests (humour, mystery, adventure, horror, sports, animals):
________________________________________________________________________

Others: __________________________________________________________________

Favourite places (home, towns, countryside, seaside, space, abroad):
________________________________________________________________________

Others: __________________________________________________________________

Main character in your story: ________________________________________________

Age: __________ Interests: ________________________________________________

Type of story: ____________________________________________________________

Place(s) where the story takes place: ________________________________________
________________________________________________________________________

Main event: __________________________________________________________________
________________________________________________________________________

Other characters: __________________________________________________________________

How the story ends: ________________________________________________________
________________________________________________________________________